Awesome Health at Age 70+

"I am so grateful for Shaklee nutrition. I have used Shaklee supplements since I was a teenager. I had an awesome Mom who was always looking for the best supplements for her family. When she found Shaklee supplements, she knew she need look no further.

That was a while ago! I am now in my 70's and feel like I am in my 40's. The majority of people my age are on 6-8 medications for cholesterol, blood pressure, diabetes, etc. I am on none!

Most people my age are sedimentary. I walk 3-4 miles almost every day, I weight train with my trainer at the gym 3 days a week for an hour, and I practice yoga and take 2 yoga classes weekly.

One day at the gym, while doing arm pulls, my trainer said, "Wait, I want to take a picture of your back muscles!"

Exercise, good diet of fresh veggies and fruits, AND Shaklee products is the winning combination for awesome health all through my life. Suzanne Chaney Bed Sores ... When I worked as a junior nurses' aide at Stamford (CT) hospital, we were taught to be aware of bedsores developing on our patients' backs. We were instructed to tell the medical staff right away.

Bad news. So in 1999 when I got a call from the nurse, John C, who ran a group home for the elderly, that my mother was developing a bedsore, I knew enough to be concerned. He never called unless it was serious.

My mother had been bedridden for weeks due to pneumonia. The pink spot had turned to red and then began to break down. Nothing the nurse did showed any signs of stopping or reversing the damage.

When I got off the phone, I had a thought. Shaklee had recently come out with their Enfuselle line of nutritionally based skin-care products, which I was using. One is called C&E Repair. I knew it had helped with sun-damage on my face.

I took some over to my mom and requested they try it. John C said they had tried all sorts of creams and nothing had worked. But I asked him to try it.

Good news. I got a call a few days later that the bedsore had closed up and began to lighten in color. And then it was gone.

A few weeks after I started using this product a friend asked me what I was doing to my face, and please to get her some. More recently another friend who swears by an expensive brand has made the change and is very pleased (and she looks great!).

Fake Food Watch writes:

Ensure Drink: Sugary Fake Food Pseudo-Wonder Tonic by Vicodin Maker

Meet Ensure "nutrition shakes," one of the most spectacularly selling fake foods in America. $1 billion in sales in 2009, and growing.

Bought by seniors in the millions as meal replacements. Used to supplement the diets of picky children. Hawked as a solution to build muscles, meet nutritional needs, fortify calcium, restore vigor, aid recovery from illness and surgery.

The sapphire-and-navy plastic 8-oz bottle of vanilla Ensure Nutrition Shake (which retails for an exorbitant $1.33 per bottle!) here on my desk lures on the label:

- complete, balanced nutrition
- to help get strong on the inside
- #1 doctor recommended brand

"Ready to take charge of your health? Check out how Ensure ready-to-drink shakes and drinks can help you reach your goal," exhorts Abbott Nutrition, part of Big Pharma corporate giant Abbott Laboratories on their website. (Abbott Labs, the maker of addictive painkiller Vicodin and dozens of other highly profitable drugs...)

Problem is...

Ensure is mainly sugar and water, spiked with innumerable chemicals. Laced with preservatives, additives, and artificial flavorings and colors. And salt. Ensure is not real food, but is the quintessential fake food, manufactured by a modern industrial conglomerate.

The Power of Probiotics

By Carolyn Brown, MS, RD

You've probably heard the term "probiotics" tossed around recently on labels and in the news. I swear by them and recommend them to many clients. People tend to think of bacteria as something to get rid of, but actually a huge amount of the bacteria in your body are the good guys, in fact your gut is home to over 500 bacterial species or probiotics. And a lot of the time, if you take antibiotics or just generally have a pretty processed diet, many of these good guys get wiped out.

Here's the "good bacteria" 101:

1. Probiotics help with digestion and help break down nutrients. So if you have any tummy issues, whether chronic or acute, probiotics may help.
2. They are also major immune boosters. The more probiotics in your belly and along your digestive tract, the harder it is for the bad bacteria and viruses to get in. Probiotics also make a compound called bacteriocins which researchers think may quash harmful bacteria.
3. Research is showing that probiotics may benefit everything from GI issues from constipation and diarrhea to IBS to ulcerative colitis and Crohn's, as well as mood disorders and depression. When I'm feeling off, whether from traveling or a little too much fun, I make sure that probiotic is getting in my supplement regimen daily.
